

Book Tim Andrews to appear at your next:

- Conference
- Team building event
- Competency event

"If you want a complete contrast to boring, one way, slide-driven presentations – then Tim can offer a top quality, professional alternative which leaves people with valuable and sustainable outcomes – and some tangible actions and results that they can take away from the experience and apply."

Jean Floodgate FCIPD – formerly Head of Management Development TSB group and Head of Learning and Development at The Body Shop International

Challenge your people

Has the communications culture in your organisation gone stale?

So what?

Why?

What's in it for me?

I don't understand!

Tim Andrews will challenge how most organisations approach learning, training and communications... and why most of them fail!

Tim Andrews presentation topics include:

Challenge your leaders to create higher engagement when face to face with their people.

Challenge your training teams to put their receivers in the spotlight and create more meaning for them.

Help your internal communication teams to create consistent messages especially when the human face-to-face element comes into play.

Challenge your people to explore ways to reduce the dilution of your key messages which occurs when individual deliverers put their 'own spin' on the message.

Why less is more! when cascading key communication

Why more is less! When planning your key messages

Reinvigorating the communications culture within your organisation.

Tim Andrews has been involved in Adult Learning for more than 20 years using engaging techniques from a variety of sources. He founded Stretch Learning on learning principles he put into practise to gain his Bachelors Degree only a few years ago. Tim's unique approach to learning stems from what he calls a 'learning difference' in the way he absorbs and presents information.

His key strength is examining (and experiencing) the gap between the delivery of knowledge and the learning itself. As a result, he has come to be known as a 'professional learner', delivering workshops and inspirational sessions throughout the world. Tim is a member of The European Consortium for the Learning Organisation (ECLLO).

Tim has delivered at conferences in: USA, Australia, Russia, Far East, UAE and Europe. Group sizes from 30 to 2500... the message remains the same!